Drop In Family Art Activity with Utah Museum of Fine Arts and Dixie Watercolor Society.

How do Artists work? Many watercolor landscape artists paint inside a studio, but plein air artists paint landscapes outside. "En plein air" means "in open air" in French.

The Utah Museum of Fine Arts is working with the Silver Reef Museum in Leeds to host free family day learning about how plein air artists work. Come at your leisure to see plein air artists working, and then try your own hand at watercolor painting-Getting inspiration from the landscape outside.

Free family activity conducted by the Education Curators from the Utah Museum of Fine Art between 1-3pm. Dixie Watercolor Society plein air artists at work doing demos from 12:00-4:00pm

These FREE events are sponsored by City of St. George and Arts to

Zion / Southern Utah ! (registration is suggested, space limited - sign up at <http://tinyurl.com/WashingtonCountyWorks>)
