

JOSEPH KITTERMAN

Joseph Franklin Kitterman was 46 years old and had been a pharmacist since he was 14 years of age. Born in Salida, Kansas, in 1888, his parents were Alma E. and Elsie Taylor Kitterman, who survive him. Two brothers, Elmer Kitterman, Rawlings, Wyoming, and Roy Kitterman, Los Angeles; his widow, Mrs. Elsie Taylor Kitterman, a daughter, Maxine, and two sons, Harold Taylor and Standford Joseph Kitterman, all of Salt Lake City.

Mr. Kitterman had been working at the Liberty Drug store for over a year as a pharmacist. Before coming here he had worked at Murry, Utah. Although quiet and rather unassuming, he had made many friends during his sojourn in this city.

C. W. Love, Jr., states that he had always found him very reliable and willing to help in every way. Patrons of the store remember him as a quite, courteous, efficient druggist.
