This collection consists of prints, glass lantern slides, and negatives of the towns of Leeds, Silver Reef, Paragonah, St. George, and other scenes and towns in southwestern Utah. Included are buildings, mining, milling, and other activities. These slides were hand colored by Walter P. Cottam in the days before color film. Photographs identified insofar as possible by William H. Behle, on the basis of familiarity with the country and photographer's notes left by Mark A. Pendleton which also accompany the slides. Some of the glass plate negatives from which these were made are present.
