Preserving--Protecting--Restoring

The Washington County Historical Society (WCHS) is a nonprofit organization formed to promote, protect and perpetuate the history of Washington County, Utah. It embraces the county's community historical societies and supports their efforts to preserve our history.

The WCHS Board is comprised of members representing many local historical societies and other historically-minded citizens, all working together to preserve, protect and restore the history of Washington County, Utah. The Board meets from 10 AM until Noon on the last Wednesday of each month, September through May.
